

Apology to AUAN

The Euro Weekly News, 15-21 November 2007

Last week we printed a story about a threat to homes in Almanzora. In the article we claimed that the AUAN (Abusos Urbanísticos Almanzora No) were fighting against potential land-grab problems in the Almanzora valley. The AUAN is not fighting land-grab in the areas, as there have been no cases of the law affecting the area. The AUAN is campaigning for the many illegally-built properties, which were purchased in good faith, to be made legal. There is no indication that the properties in the Almanzora valley are under threat, as they are inland and therefore not affected by the recent coastal law that affects properties along the coast. The error has caused the AUAN a number of problems, and we would like to apologise for any confusion or stress that has been caused. The Euro Weekly News
